

Please, do NOT allow cell phone use on commercial aircraft. Manners and courtesy have deteriorated enough as it is- people just do not consider others when they are gabbing loudly into their phones. Your conversation is not _that_ important- it can wait until the plane has landed.

Furthermore, passengers yapping on a phone are not listening to flight attendant's instructions. This could potentially be a dangerous situation, not only for the talker, but the people around him or her.

Thank you for soliciting comment on this issue- I urge you to keep the rules as they are.
